SATURDAY, Oct. 7. HPPER POLICE OFFICE.—ANOTHER CASE OF STARBING .- On Friday, Morris Levy of 23d street, near Broadway; cap-maker, had a quarrel with his partner, Alexander Cohen, about some money Levy had received, and also concerning their partnership accounts. Levy gave Cohen a push, and the latter then stabbed Levy with a knife in the left breast, Levy then struck Cohen, who thereupon thrust the second time at Lery, cutting him in the left ear. Levy then ran off to avoid further injury. Alexander Smith, constable of the 16th ward, arrested Cohen, who was held to bail in $500 by Justice Gilbert to answer.

POLICE OFFICE .- BURGLARY .- The house of Mrs. A. E. Hardy, No. 84 Greenwich street, was forcibly entered on Friday night and 4 damask table cloths, 10 lines sheets, 3 calico dreses, and other articles of female apparel stolen-the burglars escaping. They entered by the base-

CORONER'S OFFICE.—DEATH BY BEING THROWN FROM A CARRIAGE. The Coroner held an inquest on Friday night at No. 440 Grand-street, on the body of Elliott Higgins, of 253 Henry street, a native of Massachusetts, aged about 60 years, master rigger. The deceased about 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon rode out in his barouch and pair, and year 6 o'clock his horses became affrighted, ran at full speed along Grand street, throwing the deceased out in front who, becoming entangled in the lines, was dragged head downward behind the horses' heels, they kicking him on the head, until they reached Pitt street where he became disen-tangled and left senseless on the ground, the horses running He was carried into the office of Dr. Walters, at the above number, where he died in half an hour. ACCIDENTALLY DROWNED .- The Coroner held an inquest his morning, at 10 Centre street, on the body of William Allen, a native of England, aged about 55 years, who, while hing down on Friday afternoon on the string piece of the ship at Coentie's slip, rolled off into the dock. He was taken out in about 5 minutes by the beatmen, who resorted to the almost universally fatal practice of rolling him upon a barsell to trestore him, but in vain. Verdict, accidentally

Dr. Archer, the Coroner, desired it to be expressly stated, that rolling a submerged body on a barrel to restore it to animation, is one of the most certain means of preventing resustogether with artificial heat and wrapping the body in blankets until medical aid is provided."

Police Office.—Burglary.—The house of Albert Coles, 23 Mulberry street, was entered on Thursday night by the burglars climbing over an adjoining unfurnished building, and some bedding, a gold chain, silver pencil case, invisible green overcoat, a pair of pantaloens, &c. &c. stolen. The depredators got clear.

CORONER'S OFFICE. - The Coroner on Saturday also held a third inquest, which was not concluded until a late hour. never had greater or more flattering prospect of glorious aud em Industry, E. Joy MORRIS, to Congress, over as infamous and desperate a combination of men as ever disgraced the powe have great reason for predicting the success of Mr. Con-rad over Charles J. Ingersoil; and in the Third, where the questionably triumph over John T. Smith. In the Second, Joseph R. Ingersoli will be re-elected by a triumphant mabeing elected; and Penrose Nash, one of the most noble, popular, frank and fearless Whigs that ever breathed, will walk over the field by an overwhelming vote for County Treasurer. Of the City Council Tickets there is no fear, while i is idle for our opponents to run a candidate in opposition to that universally esteemed and excellent officer, Mayor Scott. The City Legislative Ticket is beyond the reach of de-leat; but I fear the County Ticket stands but little chance

We shall probably elect our Commissioners in the Northem Liberties, Southwark and Moyamensing, from the fact that in each of these Districts the Loco-Focus have formed two separate tickets.

That every resort to cheat and defraud the Whites in the First District will be attempted no one doubts, but the peo-ple know their rights and will maintain them.

The election of our Canal Commissioners is a matter of the highest importance to Pennsylvania. Should they be defeated, (of which, however, I think there is little doubt,) the same corrupt and ruinous system which has characterized the management of the State Canals for years past, will still continue, while the administration of Gov. Porter, not the people, reap the benefits.

Although I am opposed in politics to the Tri bune, yet I place the fullest confidence in the firmness, ability and love of liberty always displayed in its columns, and therefore I am a constant reader of it. Two facts have been pointed out to me lately that I thought it would be well to call attention to, as requiring information.

One is, the abuse of the Sentence of State Prisin our Courts of Justice to Roman Catholics, by placing a cross on the Bible whereon they are sworn to testify the truth. The first is sadly exemplified in the liberation of Yankee Sullivan without serving out the full time of his sentence. He cut up his antics on the Beacon Course here on Monday last, (this day week.) I saw him there. Philanthropists may talk about the abolition of Capital Punishment, but, sir, can they pro tect the lives and property of our fellow citizens by State Prison punishment ? The Bible Crossing implies the grossest ignorance, and callous. ness to the crime of perjury against the Catholics -both are utterly false. This remains after the penal enactments of three dark centuries, and is unworthy our day.

REMARKABLE ESCAPE .- The Rochester Demotrat says that on the 22d ult. Eliarda Baldwin, son of Time thy G. Baldwin, of Chili, climbed a tree for the purpose of procuring honey. When 85 feet from the ground, having first puta rope round his body and fastened it to the tree, he con meaced cutting the branch containing the honey. The limb on which he was standing gave way. He made a spring, in order, as he supposed, to grasp another branch; but the unfortunate man fell. He struck, 20 feet from the tree which

From the Commercial Advertiser Poisonous Effects of Lead Pipe.

Notwithstanding the many cautions which have been published from time to time in relation to the use of the lead pipe for conveying Croton water into our dwellings, I am surprised to find that the danger to which the lives and health of our citizens are exposed from this cause are very generally overlooked or disregarded. Many suppose that the small quantity of lead which is dissolved by water conducted through such pipes cannot produce any very deleterious consequences, and, indeed, is too small to merit any serious notice or consideration. But the physician who has studied the effects of poisons upon the animal economy will tell you that these minute doses, often repeated, are far more injurious to the health than large doses occasionally administered. It is not from a single dose of calomel, for example, that we dread the poisonous effects of mercury, but from small quantiles, frequently administered.

Since the Croton water was introduced into our city, I have had frequent occasion, as a phy sician, to notice what I had no hesitation in pronouncing the effects of lead upon the system in those who habitually made use of the water conducted in pipes made of this metal. It is a very common error to suppose that the symptoms produced by small doses of such an agent will be chiefly manifested upon the digestive organs; whereas the nervous system feels its influence in a more especial manner, although every organ in the body becomes more or less affected. It is indeed, characteristic of lead, in common with the other mineral poisons, to unite chemically with the tissues of the body, thus forming a part of the living structure. The effect of this combination is the total destruction, in the part where it takes place, of the power of effecting those changes which go to constitute organic life, or which are the usual result of this principle.

There is a constant struggle going on between the vital force and the chemical action of the poison. If this is in small quantity or of feeble power, or the vital force is strong, then combination takes place only in a small degree. In some cases the poison remains combined, without producing the death of the part. Where the quantity taken is very large, a destruction of substance occurs, and is followed, as a burn on the skin would be, by inflammation, and casting oil the dead by the living parts. But this occurs only in citation that can possibly be resorted to, as it tends to accel- rare cases; in general, a great shriveling of the erate death. "The cause of death in drowned persons is suf- parts to which the poison is applied takes placefocation and not water in the stomach, as little is ever found | the combination not totally destroying, but only there in such cases in a post mortem examination. Exter- impeding the healthy functions. This goes on nal stimulants and brisk friction or rubbing should be used, quietly for weeks and months, and possibly in some cases even years, each month or year adding its effect to that of the preceding, yet leaving no visible trace in the parts of its action, till finally the whole system becomes so saturated with the poison that palsy and death ensue.

Dr. Dana thinks that the poison, once combined with the tissue, is redissolved by an excess of the poison, and the parts are thus affected with broken into and a silver spoan marked S. M. 4 Germon do, a a general softening and pulpiness. "This," he remarks, "is not an infrequent trace of disease, which is found on dissection of those who have | most careful attention. ings, hardenings, contractions, or great softness." Lead is one of those agents which, when administered in small doses and largely diluted, are taken up by the absorbent vessels, and thus introduced into the blood. It is thus carried to every gan with which it comes in contact, and impeding the action of every part with which it combines, bringing on disease, with a long train of anomalous symptoms. "Lill finally before the action of every part with which it combines, bringing on disease, with a long train of anomalous symptoms." "Lill finally before the street." anomalous symptoms, "till finally, before the cause has been suspected, and while the sufferer is still under the daily influence of that cause, the deposited lead begins to be redissolved, a general content of the cital organic takes place and contenting of the cital organic takes place and cause has been suspected, and while the sufferer softening of the vital organs takes place, and death closes the laboratory of life."

The usual symptoms which I have noticed, and which I attribute to lead, are principally of a rheumatic character, occurring in different parts of the body, especially the back, loins and limbs, together with more or less head-ache, and a general sensation of lassitude and debility. Motion; and all exercise of an active kind are irksome:

| Mone worthy of the confidence of parents, the Principal has examined many similar listintions in Europe and America. The Summer Syssion commences May 15; ends October 15. "Winter" Nov. "April "The charge is $80 per Session, which includes all expenses, save for Books, Music and Modern Languages. Circulars and infinite information may be obtained of Rev. Heary Chase, 44 Market street, New York, and of Rev. Alfred and all exercise of an active kind are irksome; the mental faculties are often as languid as the bodily functions; the appetite is less affected, though in some instances I have found it capricious. To those who are already under the influence of this subtle poison, as Dr. Dana has remarked, two remedies may be proposed, one wholly on chemical principles, the other on the principle of common sense. The last is to abstain at once from the use of lead water. The first is, drink daily, for some time, a small portion of sugared water, rendered sour as lemonade, by oil of vitriol. This will decompose the compound of lead with the tissues with which it may come in contact, and form a perfectly insoluble salt of lead, which is harmless. Under this course the poison may probably be finally eradicated from the system.

In several instances where families have suffered from the effects of lead, and the tinned lead has been substituted for the pure lead pipes which had previously served for the introduction of water into their houses, these syptoms have gradually disappeared, and they now enjoy good health. As prevention is far easier and cheaper than cure, would it not be well for those about to introduce the Croton into their houses, to procure the above-mentioned, or some other pipe of equal safety? If such were the general practice, I am certain that the Croton water would prove a far greater blessing to our City than otherwise it will.

IT THE EXCHANGE HOTEL AT BALTIMORE IS one of the very best houses in America, having on Confinement, and the other is an insult offered in fact no superior among our first class establishments. We have recently had an opportunity of testing its merits, and have never been better pleased with the arrangements and conduct of a hotel, than we were with those of the Exchange. The building is the property of the Commercial Exchange Company, and situated at the junction of Lombard, Gay and Second streets, a most favorable location in the immediate vicinity of the steamboat landings. The landlord is Erastus COLEMAN, whom every body in Boston remembers as the popular host of the Pavillion in this city, and it is not therefore surprising that the Baltimoreans should consider the Exchange as the best house ever kept in their city. There are airy and elegant apartments for the accommodation of full two hundred persons, with rich and substantial furniture, and all imaginable convenienccs attached. The table is of the very best, the cooking unexceptionable, and the wines of the most recherche quality. A well supplied reading room has lately been added to the hotel, where the papers from all parts of the Union are on file.
